WIN (Workforce Initiative Network)
What is Amida Care’s Workforce Initiative Network (WIN)?

• WIN is a partnership between Amida Care and two community based organizations for vocational training services for Amida Care members.

• Partnerships are with Housing Works (starting 2014) and The Alliance for Positive Change (The Alliance) (Starting in 2015).

• WIN is designed to give Amida Care members marketable job skills by completing a 6-7 week renowned peer training program at either Housing Works or ASCNYC.
How Does Amida Care Utilize Partnerships?

Upon graduation of the vocational training cycle, Amida Care members should leave with basic job readiness skills that would enable them to get a part-time peer position at a HIV community-based organization.

What is part of the training?
- HIV/AIDS Education
- Growth Mindset Development
- Resume Building
- Basic Computer Skills
- Interpersonal Skill Building

Amida Care’s primary function in the WIN program is to serve as the funding agency for these programs and recruit Amida Care members to apply for either organization’s vocational training program.
Amida Care’s Consumer Workforce Innovator Project
What is Amida Care’s Consumer Workforce Innovator Project?

• Amida Care’s Innovator Employment Project helps people with lived experience with HIV find and keep livable wage jobs while using their lived experience to improve the health of others.

• In partnership with organizations in NYC, our members receive vocational training, state certification, and employment at community-based organizations (CBOs).

• This program has been supported by the NYC Council since 2017.

• So far, over 30 peers have benefitted from the program, nearly 20 of them have accepted permanent employment.
What’s the Plan to Achieving Living Wage Employment?

1. New York State AIDS Institute (AI) Peer Certification
   - Consumers complete courses and practicum hours that meet the AI Peer Certification requirements.
   - Courses emphasize and reinforce fundamental workforce skills that are crucial to a consumer worker's success.

2. Employment with Community Providers
   - Safety-net providers employ the consumer workers and provide supervision to support agency culturalization and team readiness to engage with non-clinicians/para-professionals.

3. Ongoing Technical Assistance
   - Individualized technical assistance is provided to the consumer, their supervisor, and other key staff.
   - Consumer workers hone their workplace skills.
   - Supervisors learn how to support the workplace needs of consumer workers.
